

A POOR RECORD.

Kansas City Journal—Mr. Van Aken's record for patriotism is very poor indeed. He never voted in his life till last year, and then voted for Grover Cleveland.

RIGHT.

Washington Post.—The Mugwumps make very lively war on Tammany in the off years, but in the Presidential campaigns they pitch in and help the tiger to fortify itself for emergencies like the present.

"SPEECH" DAYS RECALLED.

New York World.—Some thirty years ago there were so-called statesmen who attempted under the rules, as they interpreted them, to break up the Union for the sake of the sake of money. They did not succeed. Those who now attempt to use the sake of silver are attempting to thwart the constitutional rules of the majority by abuse of the rules of parliamentary government, will succeed no better. Their cause is equally hostile to the highest welfare of the Republic.

THE CRIME OF FILIBUSTERING.

Senator Sherman.—There is no money to buy cotton and corn and wheat for foreign consumption. Break down this barrier now maintained by the Senate of United States; break up this filibustering and obstruction to the will of the majority; give the Senate force and power to veto any bill, and pass it; and in ten days the skies will brighten, business will resume its ordinary course, and all the clouds which lowered upon our house shall be in the deep bosom of the ocean buried.

THE SENSELESS PLEA FOR "MORE MONEY."

Philadelphia Record.—In answer to the cry for more money, over one hundred million dollars in new currency has been suddenly cracked into the circulation. Instead of securing the expectation of those who called that money is the answer to the laun, however, it is gathering, unused and unavailable, in the banks and in the hands of lenders. It may be that "money makes the mare go"; but money loses its use and the mare stands idle when business halts. No one wishes to keep the mare going when she earns nothing, carries nothing and fetches nothing.

WHERE SENATOR SHERMAN STANDS.

Senator Sherman.—Why do we sit here without a single vote upon any question? If we will try it to morrow, after all the long debate which has been had, and if we dispose of the question as we think best, we will be in order. Then, sir, we will gladly the hearts of millions of laboring men who are now being deprived of employment; we will relieve the business cares of thousands of men whose whole fortunes are embarked in trade; we will relieve the farmer and facilitate the transportation of his products to foreign countries, which is now clogged by the want of money.

A SCHOLAR STOOPS TO DRIVEL.

Kansas City Times.—Senator Morgan of Alabama has obtained deserved reputation as a profound lawyer, but his statement that the common belief of his countrymen is a majority's right to rule is a political heresy he has been called by his colleagues. It is the plain how weak is the cause of the obstructors when a man of the learning and attainments of Mr. Morgan puts forth such a droll as that. The majority should take care of itself, he argues, therefore the minority should be given powers, never dreamed of in the Constitution, by which it can defeat the right of the majority to rule and prolong and aggravate a public disease that cries for remedy.

A CHIMB, THIS, INDER.

Washington Post.—After a vote in the Senate seemed to have reached a point in which it is incumbent on the Democratic majority to bring masters to a focus and do something to settle the pending question. It reminds a prominent Democratic statesman, said to be Senator Vest of Missouri, of an incident of prairie life.

An aged couple had lived for forty years in peace and harmony on pig and hominy, and domiciled for the most part in the cramped quarters of a prairie schooner. The struggle for existence against the range of poverty had suppressed certain luxuries of life. Individual temperance, which found full vent when it was located a fat and fertile quarter section, they had risen to the dignity of a loghouse. Six months of warmth and high feeding brought on a series of family quarrels, which culminated in a personal encounter over the alternative purchase of a feather bed or a cook stove. The old lady proceeded to larrup her lawless master with a biscuit beater, while he waded into her hair and hide with a Hickory tomahawk. In the midst of their argument a cyclone hit the log cabin and buried them in the ruins. The old man dug himself feebly out of the wreck as his wife appeared across a dividing bog.

"I am a God, man," said he, "this has reached a crisis. I didn't think we was gwine ter fall the house down. Let's compromise."

IT is estimated that the pension approach for the year ending June 30, 1894, will reach the enormous sum of $84,000,000. This, it is claimed by those who profess to know, will be the high water mark in the range of pension appropriations, and will be the last year of the appropriation will begin to decrease. The dash rate now among the old soldiers is daily increasing and almost every day pensions are issued to soldiers who have been disabled in the service. The pension attorney who has labored hard to secure the pension is thus out of his fee, for the rule of the office is that no fee is to be paid if the soldier dies when his claim is allowed.

FIGHT ENDED.

The Silverites Will Filibuster No Longer in the Senate.

Unconditional Repeal Will Soon Be Allowed to Go to a Vote.

In a Caucus Southern Silverites Come to the Conclusion That They Have Had Enough of the Fight-Senators From Silver States Also Weaken.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The silver fight ended Tuesday morning, the long and weary struggle. The northern democrats who were making the bitter contest aided by the republicans from the silver states, decided that they could not longer stand out, and after a conference of more than an hour adjourned and announced plainly that they would not filibuster any longer, but allow unconditional repeal to come to a vote.

The silver republicans, who have been waging their long days as to when to take this next step, held out into this morning, and it can be stated that unconditional repeal will be voted upon within a few days. The silver senators—Jones and Stewart, of Nevada—who are now speaking will be allowed to speak.

About 1 o'clock the southern senators came out of their conference with rather downcast faces and it was soon apparent that they had not accomplished much in their cause. In fact, it was given out that they had decided to withdraw and that after a day or so longer they would withdraw all opposition and a vote would be allowed. This got out soon after the southern men came on the floor.

After the meeting of the southern senators became known Senator Harris sent to one of the republican senators and told him that the southern senators had decided to withdraw and that they would allow unconditional repeal to be voted upon without objection. The acknowledgement from Harris was a surprise indeed and it is now known that the southern senators will withdraw all opposition, like wildfire all over the capitol. This decision of the democrats disheartened the silver republicans and for the first time, Tuesday, they too, outwardly show signs of surrender, too. The program now is to let things drift along for a day or two and then fix an hour for the vote.

What made the silver democrats change their opinion so suddenly? Is the situation now so bad and the answer to the situation so clear? Had not the republicans stood firm for unconditional repeal a day or so ago the makeshift compromise of Gorman and his crowd would have been pushed and may have carried.

The silver republicans of position in the silver republican ranks. They were growing tired of the struggle and gave notices last night that they would rather go to their constituents bent on right than to make a makeshift compromise. This notice frightened the southern democrats who found themselves left alone in the struggle.

They tried this morning to patch up another combination but the overtures were repudiated and then came the news that Senator Sherman was ready with his amendment and altogether the fire-eating southerners, who boasted Tuesday morning that a very warm place would freeze them before they surrendered, quietly and suddenly gave up the game when they found out all was over. The question as to when a vote will be reached has not been settled yet.

Senator Voorhees says: "A light is ahead; unconditional repeal will be voted upon for eight hours. The vote will be given the senators who are now speaking to finish their speeches, and then the voting on the amendment and the bill will begin."

Senator Aldrich says: "The vote will be reached for eight hours. The silver senators have not much more to talk about, and if they have, it will do on any other subject as well as on this."

Senator Dubois acknowledged the coming of the vote and said: "There will be no further obstruction to a vote, but Senators Jones and Stewart, of Nevada, and Teeter, of Colorado, will be allowed to finish their speeches. It may be a week or a month yet, but the vote will be reached."

Senator Murphy says: he expects a vote at once. Faulkner is hopeful.

While there has been no absolute change in the situation yet, the morning has been marked by a series of motions to vote on unconditional repeal, which will be reached within a week. Strength was given these rumors by Senator Faulkner about noon when he left the senate chamber and talked with a number of his colleagues, who were present on the situation. He gave it as his opinion that in less than five days a vote would be reached on unconditional repeal and that it would pass.

"These forty-eight voters for and against the bill will be as good as any other group of men in the Senate," he said, and that an unconditional repeal would probably result after a few more days of debate and the vote would be reached by unanimous consent."

This statement naturally seemed to repeat itself but it was hard to believe that the same would come from nearly all the silver senators in the form of counter statements that they had not yet given up the fight, and that unanimous consent could not be reached. It was noted that the northern democrats led by Sen. Connel and Harris, held a conference Tuesday afternoon to decide upon a programme to be followed hereafter.

When asked if he thought unconditional repeal would pass, Senator Harris in his characteristic style: "Not until shark flees over," but it is a fact that some of the republicans are weary of the struggle and are worn out physically with the toil of endurance and that they have an opinion that the fight against the repeal can not be kept up much longer.

HE COMMITTED SUICIDE!

The Cause and its Lesson.

Why did he commit suicide? I'll tell you the reason that thousands of others have committed suicide in the past—disease of the brain, paralysis, insanity, or some other equally unfortunate result of nervous affection. He was afflicted with a nervous disorder, but was not afflicted with insanity.

He had little or no knowledge of such a disease, and he was not able to get any information about it.

He was a nervous sufferer, who has nervous or sick heart, blood vessels, kidneys, lungs, brain, faltering, sleeplessness, nervous dyspepsia, sexual difficulty, epilepsy, etc.

The same or similar consequences are likely to result in the case of the nervous disorder of the spinal cord.

Franklin Miles, the celebrated dentist, has been a nervous sufferer for many years, and has discovered the only reliable remedy for them. Thousands of voluntary testimonies prove the virtues of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, of Oneida, N. Y., writes: "I am a sufferer with extreme nervousness that I have had for many years, and that I could scarcely hold myself. I used to be a patient of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, and I can assure you that it is a wonderful remedy for nervous trouble."

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, of Oneida, N. Y., writes: "I have not had a headache, or any other trouble, since I began to use Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine."

IRON HALL RECEIVER

Settles Accounts, with a Large Sum Will Fall to Receiver.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 25.—George S. Graham, appointed receiver for Pennsylvania of the order of Iron Hall, August 29, 1892, filed his first account in court, showing that from the amounts on hand, the receiver has collected $141,488, and disbursed for expenses $10,411, leaving a cash balance of $131,072.

Complete collections have been made from 100 branches. Five branches made return to Receiver Falet at Indianapolis prior to the appointment of Receiver Graham, and four branches made return to the cashier of the order at Indianapolis, and as they had left their money to the receiver in their hands, there was nothing to collect from them here. Sixteen branches have not paid over anything to the receiver, and bills in equity have been filed against them.

The work of Mr. Graham was complicated by the attempt of Receiver Falet to force Pennsylvania branches to make payment to him. It is not possible to determine the amount of dividend paid to him until the exact membership of the order in this state is ascertained. In addition to the cash on hand and the unconverted securities, a dividend will be recovered from the Manufacturers, Engineers, Trust, and State Deposit Co., the official depository of the order in this city, which will be paid immediately after the Iron Hall collapsed.

The fund will be distributed among members of the order at the time of the appointment of the receiver, without regard to whether they have since joined any new order. Mr. Graham intends to combat any effort to secure a transfer of the funds in his possession to Indianapolis for distribution among members of the order. A member of a branch failing to make return will be recognized by the court in distribution, the receiver says.

MONEY STUDENTS.

Senators and Congressmen Reading in the Big Library.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Never to so great an extent as now has the library of congress been besieged for the literature on political subjects, for reference or for use on finance. Everything is eagerly sought and read on both sides of the question. It should not be forgotten while the stress of senatorial debate is on that this debate started in the house, and several speeches were made there equal to any senatorial remarks.

Librarian Spofford says there is no standard treatise on money. The basic and fundamental work is yet to be done. There is no book on gold, silver, the summary of all financial history and literature and be written by a man not only of literary ability and high critical acumen, but with a thorough grasp of fundamental principles.

The library has a number of congressmen who are converts to the single tax idea, but not more than six of them believe the time ripe for raising the issue and thrusting it into politics.

THE END.

Preparations Made by the Council of Administration to Close the Fair.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—The council of administration has ordered Director of Administration to have the fair closed and prepare the final programme for Columbus day. The closing day programme is expected to be the complement of the opening day exercises in several respects, and will be a spectacular reproduction on a larger scale of the landing of Columbus. This scene will be enacted on the lake front, with the caravels anchored off shore. At sunset all the flags of all the buildings will be lowered, and the fair closed, just as the dying of the flag was on May 1 that the exposition was formally opened. The grounds and buildings will be kept open until midnight of October 30 and some informal exercises will be held to mark the closing of the fair.

Female Franchise in Michigan No. 60, Lansing, Mich., Oct. 25.—The act of the last legislature permitting women to vote in municipal elections was declared unconstitutional by the supreme court Tuesday morning. The petition of Frank G. Miller, for a writ preventing the state board of registration of voters from requiring boards of registration to receive and register the names of women as electors, was denied, while that of Edward H. Kennedy and Henry S. Potter, for a writ preventing the state board of registration, was granted. This will prevent women taking part in the election November 7 next.

To Be Wedded at the Fair.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—The world's fair will not die after all without a demonstration by Cupid. There will be a marriage of the month at the fair on Columbus day, and the fair will be closed on Wednesday. The buildings have been trying places for lovers all summer and many romantic friendships have doubtless been begun and consummated in the crowded corners of the spacious fair-grounds. This scene will be enacted on the lake front, with the caravels anchored off shore.

At sunset all the flags of all the buildings will be lowered, and the fair closed, just as the dying of the flag was on May 1 that the exposition was formally opened. The grounds and buildings will be kept open until midnight of October 30 and some informal exercises will be held to mark the closing of the fair.
